The English <sup>original</sup> copy

Dear Sri Madhu Krishnan!

I am very glad to receive your letter dated 28.3.85 which arrived in Moscow 18.4.85. But I had some troubles to translate it because of very few people in Moscow knew Tamil language. And as a consequence of such two step translation some inner meaning of your sentences may be lost.

In spite of that your knowledge about link between the Sri Yantra and recent Indian National Tragedy is very interesting and somehow unexpected for me. So if you decide that I deserve that please write about the subject.

Next I would be very glad to ask you about practical and traditional recommendations for order of drawing of different types of the Sri-Yantra central stage whose specimens I send you.

And as a conclusion I want to ask you if you have own firm experiences to answer for such questions: What is the World? For which purpose exists it? What is the task of a man in the World?

If that is so, please answer by own words but not by the words from the Vedas, the Tantras, the Puranas, etc, and if you can - with addition of English duplicate of text.

With deep respect, your sincerely

Alexey Kulachen
